

Gaelic School in Edinburgh

So cue the Edinburgh all-Gaelic school. It is set to get a share of some £100,000 of government funding to provide funds for early years initiatives. It is not very clear from the article that we found on the Public Service website whether the school is made up of parts of different schools, or is indeed a standalone school. Maybe you could let us know? It certainly seems very popular in the city.