

ESPC Roadshow at Edinburgh Royal Infirmary

✘ ESPC has launched a valuable new service, taking their property experts on the road to locations across East Central Scotland. The first Property Advice Roadshow will be held at the Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh on Tuesday 12th October where staff and members of the public can meet solicitors, financial advisers and property experts to discuss any aspect of moving home.

Marketing Manager, Neil Harrison, says “We understand it can be difficult for some people to make it to our George Street showroom. These Property Advice Roadshows are a great addition to our current Ask The Experts service and will allow people to speak with our experts at a place and time that is even more convenient for them.

“We’d be delighted to take our experts to any number of different venues across East Central Scotland. People can let us know where they’d like to see us by getting in touch via our website, Facebook or Twitter.”

All aspects of buying, selling and letting can be discussed on the day with local solicitors and independent financial advisers. The Roadshow offers a real opportunity to speak to property experts at a time and place that is convenient for employees.

Choosing a home is one of the most important decisions people make but for many, understanding the process or knowing where to get advice can seem daunting. ESPC firmly believe that this need not be the case and have a variety of experts available in their George Street showroom daily, as well as frequently holding out of hours events to introduce people to the unparalleled range of property specialists they have access to.
