

Another ropey website?

What do you think you might find when a website tells you that you are about to land on the page with the organisation's press releases?

Well you might think there would be something better than stories which are 9 months old. Yes the site we found is nine months out of date. And the winner of this week's prize is.....Visit Scotland on their Convention website which you can see here.

Oh and you can also see it here.....

