

Edinburgh jobs – Project Manager with Scottish Rugby

✘ A job with Scottish Rugby is on offer. You have till 28th January to apply. Here is what the advert says:-”

Application Deadline:
28/01/2011

Job Title: Project Manager
Location: Murrayfield Stadium
Status: Permanent

Scottish Rugby is seeking a Project Manager who will play a key part in supporting the delivery of a wide range of projects across the organisation.

Working as part of the Central Services function, the role of the project manager is to support the management of projects from initial engagement, through to the delivery of part of or, entire projects of limited to moderate scope, to ensure that goals and objectives are accomplished within established time frames and to meet business needs.

Experience in a project management or similar role will have given you a focus on managing projects by planning effectively and driving the successful completion of deliverables by being highly organised, process driven and possessing excellent and efficient communication skills.

A professional project management qualification is not essential to this role, however in order to be considered you must have previous project management experience.

This is the ideal opportunity for someone with experience in a project management environment looking to develop their skills whilst working in a varied and unique organisation.”

To apply and for further details visit their website.

Photo courtesy of John Preece