

Five things you need to know today

✘ Edinburgh Trams have a new chairman, Vic Emery, according to Business 7 who give us his full profile and also The Scotsman.

Lothian and Borders Police have released photos of two people they believe could help them with their enquiries into the disappearance of Suzanne Pilley, according to Deadline.

Chair of Essential Edinburgh, Jane Wood, has confirmed that she will stand down next week amid criticism of the company's performance, according to The Scotsman.

Edinburgh oil company, Cairn Energy, is reported to be selling a stake in its Indian subsidiary to fund the company's exploration in Greenland, according to The Herald.

A new Edinburgh marketing body, Marketing Edinburgh is looking for someone to head up its operations, on a salary of around £100,000.