

Five things you need to know today

The Assembly – which means all the shows put on at the Festival Fringe in the Assembly Rooms – is moving to George Square according to The Scotsman.

Edinburgh is set to get its own TV station.....(did that not happen rather unsuccessfully a few years back)...Culture Secretary, Jeremy Hunt, made the announcement in Oxford yesterday and the details are in The Guardian.

Concern over the recent spate of fires in Edinburgh has led to LBFRS making some safety announcements and The Guardian Local Blog has more on this.

Greener Leith highlights the planning application for a hot food takeaway on Leith Walk and asks why we need more of these outlets.

Edinburgh Airport's plans for expansion have been curtailed according to The Scotsman's Brian Ferguson.