

Photos of New Year in Edinburgh

Edinburgh is as we know a very photogenic city – as shown here by the lovely photos from Markus Stitz, who you may remember was cycling home for Christmas (more of that later!). In the meantime he has returned to Bonnie Scotland and has put up photos from the last two or three days which we share with you here.

Markus has his own blog which you can access by clicking this link.