

Back to school for Mandarin classes

From February 25th, for five weeks, St George's School for Girls, the leading provider of Mandarin in the City of Edinburgh, is offering a Chinese for Business Course. The course covers the basic language skills and cultural requirements for those who are beginning to trade with China.

As the Scottish China Education Network Hub, the skills and experiences of the teaching staff are first class, and the students at St George's begin Mandarin as young as Primary 4 going all the way to Advanced Higher qualifications.

The course runs on Monday evenings from February 28th for five weeks and is being held at St George's School campus in Murrayfield.
