

Diabetes UK ask questions in Edinburgh

✘ The politics of diabetes: what do you want from Scotland's politicians?

DIABETES QUESTION TIME

Chaired by Fred MacAulay

Macdonald Holyrood Hotel, Edinburgh, Tuesday 15 March, 7pm-8.15pm (buffet supper served from 6pm)

Over 220,000 people have diabetes in Scotland and treating diabetes costs the NHS in Scotland over £1bn.

On the eve of the Scottish Parliament elections, this is your chance to ask Scotland's political parties about their policies, plans and priorities for diabetes.

The Health Spokespeople for Labour, SNP, Liberal Democrat, Conservative and Green Party will all be there.

This is a free event.
