

Edinburgh Festival Fringe Review: Andrew Doyle – A Crash Course in Depravity (*)

Andrew Doyle's show is one heck of a good laugh and in fact the reviewer's jaw muscles felt well stretched for at least 2 hours after the show! The one-liners keep coming and he is quick witted with his audience interaction. The work is well structured with a lot of adult content so it is not a show for the easily offended.

Some of the material does sail close to the wind, but then any fearless comedian who did not do so with a subject like this would definitely not have so much material to use for a 'depraved' show.

☒ If you feel naughty, this one is well worth it for you.
