

Five things you need to know today

One of the bills to be debated at The Scottish Parliament in this session is that relating to a single police force. But this does not mean that either Edinburgh or Glasgow will be used as the base for the unified body. The Scotsman reports that Justice Minister, Kenny McAskill, has hinted it might be Tulliallan where the Scottish Police College is already sited.

At Edinburgh Sheriff Court yesterday the owners of the Forrest Road Subway appeared to face charges of failing to ensure the shop was kept clean, The Daily Record reports.

An interesting resume of transport in the whole of Edinburgh and its region on SeanMcP's Blogfeast. Written before the latest tram decision but nonetheless an accurate summing up of what the current state of affairs is.

A reminder to clear your diary from 21 September 2011 for the Take One Action film festival at The Filmhouse. The Reporter is especially keen to see You've Been Trumped on 2 October 2011 which will be followed by a Q & A with the director.

And finally for today, a request from us:-

We would like to make sure that you do not miss any of our articles. Please subscribe by inserting your email address and you will then receive our newsletter with short excerpts from our latest stories.

Enter your email address: Delivered by

