

Five things you need to know today

Edinburgh poet, Emily Dodd, has been moved by the new hybrid buses used by Lothian Buses on the Number 10 route to write a poem about it. You can read it on Greener Leith.

Edinburgh is to be featured in the Cloud Atlas film starring Halle Berry, and STV tell us that the filming will take place in the City Chambers this Friday when a man might jump out of a window at the back of the building...

Variety think the the new artistic director of the Edinburgh International Film Festival, Chris Fujiwara who was appointed last week, has his work cut out for him according to their article here.

We love taking photos and know that many of you do too, but have you joined Blipfoto yet? The idea is that you upload a photo taken in Edinburgh each day...and you are only allowed one photo each day so it has to be your best one! Here is the link to our journal....

Morningside Community Council meet tonight at The Open Door 420 Morningside Road at 7 For 7.30p.m. Here is their agenda:-

Agenda Morningside CC