

Some things you need to know today

In the news today there is only one topic...

Stormy weather

Our photo today shows the calm before the storm.

The whole of Scotland is now being hit by storm force winds which may last until late tonight when the winds are predicted to drift northeastwards. So time to batten down the hatches and stay indoors...We have plenty of articles for you to read (over 3,500 at the last count...) or you can follow our Tweets where we will try to bring you as much up to date weather news as possible. Not a day for going on the Christmas Wheel we fear, as Edinburgh's Christmas has closed...

Here are some of the other pieces of news about weather that we have noted on Twitter...
