

Moodjam at The Voodoo Rooms 9 February 2012

'Moodjam' is taking place at the Voodoo Rooms on 9 February 2012. Your attendance will help raise funds for Action on Depression, Scotland's national charity for depression, who work to provide support to people with depression Scotland-wide, raise awareness of the condition and campaign to reduce the stigma surrounding it.

Entertainment on the evening will feature Edinburgh bands and musicians North Atlantic Oscillation, The Marvels and Steve Heron

These acts will be performing live in support of Action On Depression.

Beat the winter blues and come along to a unique one-off fundraising event that celebrates good music and up and coming talent on the Scottish music scene.

Tickets £8 on the door or £7 in advance.

Also featuring music from talented soloists Nick Paterson and Steve Heron.

Depression affects 1 in 5 people meaning most of us probably know someone who has been affected by depression or have experienced it ourselves. The charity supports people with depression through a range of services including a telephone information service, email support and community courses. To find out more about their work visit their two main websites www.actionondepression.org and www.lookokfeelcrap.org

Action on Depression see the night as mutually beneficial for both the charity and the musical talent involved:-“This is an opportunity to publicise Scottish music and promote our cause by hopefully gaining significant press coverage.

So come along for a mood-busting night with a selection of music from home-grown talent!!!!”
