

Richard Holloway launches his memoir in Edinburgh

Richard Holloway, former Bishop of Edinburgh and widely respected thinker, writer and broadcaster launched his long-awaited memoir "Leaving Alexandria" in a Canongate Books public event in Edinburgh this weekend hosted by BBC Radio 4's 'Today' programme interviewer and fellow Scot James Naughtie.

An hour-long reading, talk and question and answer session with Jim Naughtie attracted a 160-strong audience packed into the Royal Physicians Hall, Edinburgh on Saturday.

Pictures for Canongate Books from: Colin Hattersley Photography

www.colinhattersley.com

colinhattersley@btinternet.com

07974 957 388