

Council Elections 2012 – Meet the candidates – Lindsay Paterson

✖ Lindsay Paterson is the Conservative party candidate for Almond.

Lindsay has been selected by local members and she has been working closely with Councillor Kate MacKenzie in the ward, following Kate's decision to stand down at the 2012 election.

Lindsay who is 30, grew up in Davidson's Mains and has lived in Edinburgh all her life. She works for a medical professional membership organisation in the city centre.

An experienced candidate and campaigner, she has been out door knocking, leafleting and attending local events around the ward and looks forward to meeting many more local residents before the election.