

Good luck to the Moonwalkers

Good Luck to all of you taking part in the MoonWalk Edinburgh tonight in the capital. Unfortunately the weather has turned wet and cold, so we hope you make it to the finish line without mishap. The first walkers will set off from Inverleith Park at midnight and we hope to catch some of them for photos in the city centre.

This year's theme is Midnight at the Oasis and the organisers of the event say they are looking forward to seeing some exotic and exciting creations, a bit like these that were shown off in Princes Street Gardens earlier in the year.
