Man arrested – Missing Woman – Tweet your photos of Edinburgh!
– eteaket Wine and Tea tonight! – Mike McGeary on Friday night

A man has been arrested and charged with an alleged breach of the peace at a bus stop in Edinburgh.

During the ongoing investigation into two reports of indecent assault on Princes Street and The Mound on Thursday 11th October, police received a third complaint relating to a male acting suspiciously around a woman waiting on a bus at the George IV Bridge.

Local enquiries were carried out to identify the individual responsible and a 40-year-old is due to appear in court at a later date in connection with this incident.

Officers are now following a positive line of enquiry in relation to the indecent assaults.

Lothian and Borders Police are also searching for a 77 year-old woman who has gone missing from her home in West Lothian.

We have been a bit busy out and about with a film crew today so forgive us for publishing this article so late in the day. (You will see the film in a couple of weeks...) But here is a little something for tomorrow evening.

At The Queen’s Hall tomorrow evening Edinburgh guitarist Mike McGear is joined by what The Queen’s Hall describe as “a stellar cast of instrumentalists and singers to provide a mixture of original music, tributes and covers in aid of local charities. Covering an array of genres from rock, blues, classical and jazz to traditional fiddle and pipes, there is sure to be something for everyone.”
