

Charity Race Night in Musselburgh

Saddle Up for Saturday Race Night to support CLIC Sargent with the sport of Kings.

No jokes about top tips from the kitchen, but trot down to the Mercat Grill in Musselburgh on Saturday, 23 March 2013, to order the starters and get under orders for a Children's Charity Race Night. It's all in aid of CLIC Sargent – the caring for children with cancer charity.

Clerk of the course is Edinburgh's serial publican, Graham Blaikie, who recently took up the ownership reins at the former coaching inn, on the outskirts of Musselburgh.

There's a £5.00 admission, which includes a generous buffet and welcome drink, provided by the new proprietor. After that, it's hardly a king's ransom to gets you a drink and food! Another £5 gets you a horse or a race to sponsor in aid of the charity partners.

"It's a spot of race action that's immune to the weather", says Graham Blaikie. Get your ticket for a tote-ally brilliant evening." Contact info@mercattrill.com (0131 665 3354). Hopefully the racing will be better than Graham's puns.
