

Renewed Appeal to trace South Queensferry Man

Police Scotland Edinburgh Division are renewing their appeal for help in tracing a man who has gone missing from his home in South Queensferry.

Andrew Hardie (29) was last seen leaving his home address in Lawson Crescent around 10.15pm on Wednesday.

In particular Police would like to hear from anyone who was at Dalmeny rail station after 10.30 pm on Wednesday evening.

Sgt Scott Walker said:- “We are continuing in our efforts to trace Andrew who hasn’t been seen or heard from since he left his home address.

“We believe there would have been people at the station that night who may have seen Andrew in the area and heading in the direction of the Forth Rail Bridge and we would like to speak to them.

“Anyone who has seen or heard from Andrew, or who has any other information that can assist our enquiries, should contact Police Scotland immediately on 101.”

Andrew is described as white, 5ft 8ins tall, with a slim build, and short dark hair, with stubble. When last seen he was wearing dark blue jeans, white trainers, and an orange t-shirt with ‘Superdry’ across the chest.
