

Ratho business wins national award

The winners of the prestigious What's On 4 2013 Junior Awards in association with Konfidence have just been announced – and Honey Pot Ceramics is among them!

Honey Pot Ceramics – Arts and Crafts Studio, based in Ratho, Edinburgh was the winner in the 'Best Children's party Supplier' category and a finalist in the 'Best Local Activity for children aged 5 to 12' category.

Honey Pot Ceramics – Arts and Crafts studio, provides a range of drop in arts and crafts activities, including soap making, pottery painting, jewellery making, glass fusing, messy play for pre-school children as well as clay workshops and classes for all ages.

Juliet Russell from Honey pot Ceramics, said:-“We are all over the moon at both of our awards and winning the Best Party Supplier category. We love what we do and delighted to have won as these awards are voted for by our customers. We have lots of lovely party activities and drop in arts and crafts for all ages – thank you to everyone who voted for us”

Each and every children's activity, party venue, entertainer and volunteer from throughout the UK had the opportunity to be nominated and the number of nominations this year reflects the support from the nations parents for these exciting awards and their eagerness to reward the very best!

The winners were announced by TV celebrity host Lucy Piper at Brighton Racecourse yesterday, Sunday 30 June 2013.

This exciting awards programme, which is supported by ABC Magazine, is now in its seventh year and celebrates the best activities, classes, volunteers and venues from throughout the UK as nominated and voted for by the experts – parents and parents-to-be.

Honey Pot Ceramics – Arts & Crafts Studio can also help entertain the kids this summer with a whole range of lovely arts and crafts workshops over the summer.
