

Craft Scotland Summer Show Opens Today

Contributed article

Craft Scotland is hosting an exciting new Summer Show which opens to the public today. The Show will bring together 36 fantastic craft makers and showcase some of the best talent currently working in Scotland. The Summer Show runs through until the 26th of August and will be presented across the second floor of White Stuff emporium on George Street, Edinburgh.

A wide variety of high quality contemporary craft will be on display and available to buy including jewellery, textiles, ceramics and furniture. The craft makers exhibiting include established and acclaimed makers such as milliner Sally-Ann Provan; ceramist Julia Smith, jewellers Grainne Morton and Jane Gowans and designer Judy R Clark. They will be joined by a selection of exciting emerging talent who have recently graduated including furniture makers Joanne Black and Susan Harper and jeweller Jenny Laidlaw.

There will be a selection of 'Meet the Makers' events taking place during the show for this and more information on opening times and a full list of participants, go to <http://www.craftscotland.org>

Stay up to date with the Craft Scotland Summer Show on twitter at #cssummershow

Connect with the Craft Scotland team for updates @craftscotland

Submitted by Jude Henderson

