

Stockbridge Photography Club

This week's photo comes from Pauline McLeod. Pauline paid a visit to the Forth Bridges, where she captured this long exposure shot of cars crossing the Firth. By day, Pauline is an HR professional, and also enjoys writing, travelling and pottery. "I go to the photography club to learn tips and tricks and to meet people who share my obsession," said Pauline.

More of Pauline's photography can be found on her blog.

The Stockbridge Photography Club is a non-profit photography club that aims to operate in a different way from the traditional photography club mould. They have informal monthly meetings where they discuss their photos over a cup of coffee and learn about the month's theme.

Outside of this, they arrange photowalks and trips to various locations and landmarks in and around Edinburgh, providing their members with something interesting to photograph, whilst always having someone on hand to answer any questions.

Currently they are preparing for their upcoming exhibition as part of Stockfest, which will be taking place in Rosie McKenzie Art on St Stephen's Street. Everybody is welcome!

More info about the club, and their upcoming exhibition, is on their website.
