

Almost time for the Christmas adverts...

So here it is Merry Christmas everybody's havin' fun.... With thanks to our new best friends from Slade, we know that actually everyone is not having fun, but retailers would like to think you are. So here are the adverts that some of the big retailers are about to bombard us with.

According to official reports, tomorrow evening the Coca Cola ad will be played for the first time. Possibly the most iconic and possibly the company which turned Santa red....
