

James McPake's twitter raffle in aid of Clutha Vaults' victims

Generous Hibs' defender James McPake is offering free tickets to five games over the next month as well as the chance to meet the players and win signed memorabilia as part of a fundraising twitter raffle.

All money raised will go to help people and families affected by the Glasgow helicopter tragedy which took place in Glasgow last month when the Police Scotland helicopter crashed into the Clutha Vaults bar.

McPake, who is currently recovering from a back operation will provide tickets for the following games; Kilmarnock (H) 29th December, Hearts (H) 2nd January, Aberdeen (A) 10th January, St Mirren (H) 18th January and Celtic (H) 26th January.

The lucky winner will also be invited to a behind the scenes tour to meet the players at the St Mirren match, plus a signed James McPake match worn top and signed Ben Williams gloves.

In addition, a special secret prize, only clue is it's to do with Hibs' Captain and the New Year Derby! (Best prize of the lot).

For a chance to win, donate £10 to – <https://www.justgiving.com/local/project/cluthavictims>

Donate £10, leave twitter name and Remember to put #Hibsprize next 2 your name as there are other prizes up for grabs.