

Santa's Grotto opens at the Commonwealth Pool today

Santa gets set for a swim at The Royal Commonwealth Pool, where his grotto opens today. Perhaps he is limbering up for the busiest time of the year...

It appears to be all part of his new active lifestyle where he is getting in trim at Edinburgh Leisure. He will also be appearing at soft play centres at EICA Ratho and Tumbles Portobello...as you can see below!

Children visiting Santa's Grottos at EICA and The Commonwealth Pool, or joining in the festive activities at Tumbles, will also have the chance to be active.

From rocking around the Christmas tree to enjoying a sleigh ride and burning off all that Christmas excitement across the city's soft play venues, there's plenty to keep kids active this festive season.

Children will be treated to a magical sleigh ride to visit Santa in his grotto at Scrambles at Edinburgh International Climbing Arena, Ratho, where they can also make Christmas crafts and enjoy soft play. On December 23rd and 24th, kids can even share a festive breakfast with Santa.

Children can also meet Santa and his elves at an amazing grotto at Clambers soft play at the Royal Commonwealth Pool. Or let little ones jump around with excitement at Tumbles, the fantastic new gymnastic and soft play centre in Portobello, where Santa will also be making an appearance.

Edinburgh Leisure offers an unparalleled range of facilities and products to families. The not-for-profit organisation has invested significantly in spectacular soft play facilities across the city in recent times, to allow children to have fun and get active from an early age.
