

Missing teenager found safe and well

A teenage girl who was reported missing from her East Lothian home has been found safe and well in the Leith area of the capital.

Nicole Saxby was last seen at 6.40pm on Sunday near the railway line at Wallyford station.

She was known to have connections in Edinburgh having previously lived in the East Craigs area of the city.

Police Scotland said they found the teenager safe and well in Great Junction Street, Edinburgh just before 6.30pm on Monday.

They thanked the public for their help in tracking her down.
