

Topping out ceremony at Edinburgh Airport

Edinburgh Airport is expanding to form a new security hall promised to sort out any queuing on departure from the capital by air.

Today there was a 'topping out' ceremony to mark the completion of the building to its full height. This does not mean the building is finished however. It will take until November before the new part of the terminal can be opened to the public. But Edinburgh Airport are very pleased with the way the contract is going, and invited The Edinburgh Reporter along to witness the event.

CEO of Edinburgh Airport Gordon Dewar got his hands a bit dirty today to help things along, ably helped by local MSP Colin Keir.

This was the scene at the end of March