

Ninth Annual Summer Youth Theatre Project

There are currently 12 places remaining on this year's Summer Youth Theatre Project which takes place at Southside Community Centre from June 30th – July 11th.

Supported by The City of Edinburgh Council's Department of Children and Families, this intensive theatre project involves around 40 young people with varying degrees of experience over a two week period. The young people meet daily for three hours in the morning, with optional workshops to further develop different theatre skills such as improvisation, movement, mime, voice, script writing and prop making taking place each afternoon from Thursday July 3rd. Participants use these skills to devise their own production which is presented to the public on the final night of the project.
