

Police appeal to trace next of kin

Police are looking for assistance from the public to trace the next of kin of an elderly man who died recently.

John Montgomery, who was 91 years old, was discovered in his home at Grays Court in the capital on Saturday 26th April and all efforts by police to find any of his relatives have so far proved unsuccessful.

Anyone who thinks they have some information which may be of use should contact Police Scotland on 101 or, alternatively, the charity Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.
