

Edinburgh solicitors appoint new members of property team

KEY PROPERTY TEAM APPOINTMENT AT PAGAN OSBORNE

Following on from a number of recent key appointments, Pagan Osborne has hired property expert Gill Gray to its team in Edinburgh.

Gill has taken on the newly- created position of Property and Business Manager. As part of this role she will be overseeing the running of the busy Edinburgh property office, developing new business and managing the company's commitment to providing quality service to its clients.

Gill, who has over 25 years' experience in the property sector, was previously a director with CALA Homes. She also ran a sales, marketing and PR consultancy, assisting a range of organisations across Scotland to develop appropriate and creative solutions to support their business goals for six years.

Karen Turner

Gill will be working alongside Property Sales Director, Karen Turner, to continue to grow Pagan Osborne's presence in the city. Gill said:

"Pagan Osborne has an excellent reputation in the market and there is a great team in place.

"With confidence returning to the economy, now is a perfect time to develop our property offering and expand our presence throughout Edinburgh and the Lothians.

"Pagan Osborne is a dynamic company with a rich heritage and it is great to be part of the team driving a real change to the approach to the provision of property, financial and legal services to best suit the needs of clients.”

Gill is a facilitator with The Leadership Trust, helping individuals and teams to develop and work more effectively. She has also been on the judging committee of the Scottish Home Awards and The Herald Property Awards.

Remarking on Gill’s appointment, Karen Turner added:

“Gill is a fantastic addition to our team in Edinburgh and is a well-known figure on the Scottish property scene. Her contacts, expertise and knowledge will be strong drivers as we develop our property offering and services and her innovative approach to business is a perfect fit for Pagan Osborne and our clients.”

Recruitment is also continuing throughout the business. The company is set to make key appointments to its legal team in Edinburgh by recruiting for a partner/associate legal manager and a private client associate.

Audrey Dishington, Partner and Client Development Director at Pagan Osborne, said:

“Pagan Osborne is a forward-thinking and innovative legal company and we are looking for team members who will share that vision. Providing great client service is about far more than drafting a one-off legal document – we are committed to truly understanding our clients’ needs throughout their lives.

“We are looking forward to making further great appointments which will strengthen our service offerings and benefit our clients in Edinburgh and Fife.”

Pagan Osborne is also recruiting a residential conveyancing paralegal, an executory paralegal and a property letting agent in Fife.

