

Enjoy your outdoor space more with a canopy

Make the most of your outdoor space with a 123v canopy

With the summer season now firmly upon us and the weather getting just that little bit brighter, we are beginning to spend more and more time outside enjoying the warmer conditions. However, to take full advantage of your outdoor space – all year round and not just in summer – the ideal option could well be the installation of a canopy from an established, reputable company like 123v.

An outdoor canopy for your property can offer a number of benefits for a homeowner. A home canopy installation provides a decorative accent which can be fitted over patios, doors and windows in a variety of designs and patterns. Canopy designs inject flair and establish a tranquil environment in which to relax and spend quality time with your friends and family.

Canopies also have several practical purposes. Domestic canopies can meet various design needs to satisfy functional objectives; you will enjoy extra storage space to keep all your garden tools and other equipment, as well as the structure acting as an affordable alternative to a house extension.

While it is important that any addition to the outside of your property is aesthetically pleasing, it is also comforting to know that any canopy designed, manufactured and installed by 123v will be capable of withstanding all extremes of the often unpredictable Scottish weather. All installations come with a 10 year guarantee and have been tested rigorously so as to ensure that they are built to last.

In addition to the useful purposes it serves in the home, a canopy is not restricted to domestic use, as the structure can also provide essential weatherproof cover, act as a smoking shelter and be used as a covered walkway for many commercial properties or premises.

123v offer their expert services across the whole of the Scotland and the UK, so if you live in the Edinburgh area and are thinking about making the most of your outdoor living space this year through the installation of a canopy, give 123v a call today to see how their dedicated installation teams can help.
