

Five things you need to know today Edinburgh

20mph Consultation

Edinburgh Sketcher takes a bite out of Apple

Morningside Library

Cinderella

At the Cameo

There is still time to air your views about traffic on most of the city's streets being restricted to 20mph. You can click here for a map of proposed 20mph speed limits to check which streets will be affected.

Click here to complete the consultation.

***

We are pretty excited about the Apple store opening on Saturday morning. If you are planning on being in the queue then we would love to hear from you. theedinburghreporter@gmail.com

It seems that the Edinburgh Sketcher (he is the aficionado with a sketchbook and pens of course!) may not have quite the same view as we do!

Post by EdinburghSketcher.

***

Morningside Library has had work carried out in recent times to get rid of the rot that was found there. Now it is proposed to carry out fire upgrade works as part of phased council Upgrade programme. These are described as minor works and under the council's Fast Track procedure the works have already been approved and will no doubt be carried out soon.

***

☒ Just a month to go till Scottish Opera's Cinderella takes to the stage at the Festival Theatre.

You all know the rags to riches story, but this one is promised to have a twist in the tail.

More details and tickets here.

***

At the Cameo tonight there is a film about Nick Cave called 20,000 Days on Earth. You need to have someone over 15 to go with you to enjoy what is billed as 'a bold look at one of music's most mysterious and charismatic figures'.

Ticket details here.

Here is the trailer: