

Thursday in Edinburgh – What's On on New Year's Day

Copyright Edinburgh's
Hogmanay, Lloyd Smith

Edinburgh's Hogmanay: Scot: Lands. Artists and musicians will welcome in the New Year at surprising and atmospheric venues in the Old Town and beyond. Begin your journey at the National Museum of Scotland, Chambers Street: discover exciting new worlds and enjoy the very best of music, art and theatre created and curated by Scotland's most innovative artists and musicians. This event is part of Edinburgh's Hogmanay and is free, but was very popular in 2014 so advance registration is now required via eventbrite. There will be two departure points, and yours will be emailed to you when you have registered: the event will require walking between venues. At NMS, events will take place 12.30-3pm (museum open 12 noon-5pm). For more information see Edinburgh's Hogmanay website.

'I Know Where I'm Going' (U): the classic 1945 film in which a headstrong, rather proud young woman travels by train and ferry to the Hebrides to marry her wealthy fiancée – but on the way she falls under the spell of the Scottish landscape and encounters another man, with whom she falls suddenly and passionately in love. A film with 'unique power...odd, dreamlike interludes, weird symbolism, a sense of ancient forces and the supernatural, and ...alertness to the possibility of romantic love...a magical, unforgettable experience, a work of real and enduring genius'. 1pm, Filmhouse, Lothian Road. Book online or call the box office on 0131 228 2688. Part of the Filmhouse's Scotland Galore! season.
