

Django Django announce new album and tour dates

Edinburgh-formed, London-based band Django Django have announced details of their new album, Born Under Saturn, that will be released on 4th May. The band will also head out on an 11-date UK tour to support the album's release.

The much-anticipated first single from Born Under Saturn, 'First Light', was released on January 12th. It was announced that the four-piece would play London's Field Day Festival in June, plus two sold-out February warm-up shows in Leeds and Edinburgh. The album was recorded at Netil House in East London and Angelic Studios in Banbury with songwriting duties split four ways and production coming from drummer Dave Maclean.

"When we were writing the lyrics there were lots of references to rebirth, turning a new page and starting something again," says drummer and producer Dave Maclean. "I guess that's something we all felt."

The tour will begin at Aberdeen's Lemon Tree on May 2 before a slot at Live at Glasgow on May 3. The band will also play BBC 6Music's annual music festival on February 21, along with Brighton Great Escape Festival and End of the Road Festival. The band will also head towards Europe for some mainstream festivals.

Django Django's first album came out in January 2012 to critical acclaim. Sadly you have missed the Edinburgh show but there are other opportunities further afield as you will see below.
