

Drummond Community High School's dating night takes place tonight

This is a dating night for young people looking for a career rather than love!

Tonight at Drummond Community High School they expect to have 30 presenters from all sorts of employment backgrounds to explain their jobs to young people who are in the final years of school and thinking of leaving.

This event is jointly organised by the school and the Parent Council.

Acting Head Teacher, Sue Cook, commented: "This will be a great way of getting businesses involved and helping progress our positive destinations as well as opening up our pupils' minds to different career options."

It will run from 5.30-6.30pm in the school concourse.