

Five things you need to know today

Forsyth's Sphere to be brought back

Valentine's Day

Competition

At Morningside Gallery

Wester Hailes Employment Fair

The council decided earlier this week to do something about the sphere which has been missing from the top of the old RW Forsyth's shop since Philip Green's Arcadia Group bought it and turned it into Top Shop two years ago.

This is largely thanks to a public petition which the council clearly felt they could no longer ignore.

The breach of control on the A listed building will now be enforced and the council will use listed building and planning controls to ensure that the current owner either replaces the sphere or pays for its replacement.

***

So it's Valentine's Day and you have no plans? Fear not – our Rosemary Kaye has all the answers here.

***

Enter here to win two tickets for the Inspiring Women in Business conference on 5 March worth £500!

***

Morningside Gallery tell us that their latest exhibition continues till next week

Our Small Paintings show has been a huge success and will continue in the gallery until February 18th, and thereafter on the website. Thank you for all your interest!

This month we have new work from gallery favourites Stephen Mangan. Gary Morrow, Sandra Moffat, Andy Cross, Rosanne Barr and Fiona Millar, as well as introducing new artist, Penelope Anstice's atmospheric landscapes.

Later on, we'll be injecting some spring colour into the gallery with a collection from Jennifer Mackenzie. Her bright palette and tactile brushwork offers a fresh take on the traditional floral still life.

***

Sign up here for a daily email from The Edinburgh Reporter !

[mc4wp_form]

If you are reading this article on paper and would like to visit the website then scan the QR code above with a smartphone or tablet and you will be taken straight there.