

Concern for missing Glasgow woman

Police are appealing for assistance in tracing an elderly woman who has gone missing from Edinburgh city centre.

Ann Ferguson, who is 61 years old, was last seen in Royal Park Terrace, Edinburgh at 9.30am this morning and her family are worried for her whereabouts. Ann suffers from dementia and other health issues but symptoms may not appear to be obvious.

She is described as 5ft 6in tall, dyed black short hair, stocky build, wearing a green parka style jacket with fur collar, blue denim jeans, and black trainers. She is carrying a black handbag.

Inspector Jonny Elliot said: "Ann was visiting Edinburgh for the day from Glasgow and is not familiar with the city, however it's possible she may have found her way to Edinburgh bus station or to Princes Street. We are seeking help from the public to trace Ann and anyone who believes they have seen her is urged to contact Police Scotland on 101."
