

Scottish Conservative and Unionist Party manifesto 2015

The Scottish Conservative and Unionist Party launched their new poster campaign earlier this afternoon in Glasgow, and their manifesto is already online for you to consider. You may read that document in full below.

The UK Conservative Party launched their manifesto last week and then a Scottish and a Welsh version.

Our new poster launched today. We say “No Thanks” to a deal with the SNP. #voteforit pic.twitter.com/jSY097dbIt

– ScotConservatives (@ScotTories) April 20, 2015

Ruth Davidson the leader of the Scottish Conservatives said today: “It’s 17 days to go until the polling stations open.

“We’re right at the business end of the campaign for the most important general election in a quarter of a century.

“The choices we make, the votes we cast will have a profound influence on the very nature and makeup of this country.

“From tomorrow, postal votes will be landing on doormats across the majority of Scotland, perhaps up to a quarter of all votes will be cast by post.

“Decisions are being made now, which will have consequences for decades to come.

“Me, I have always said that at this election – at any election – the only wasted vote is a vote that you don’t believe in.

“So I say, up front and to any and all who’ll listen that I want people to vote at this election for the party they believe in. To vote for the policies that they agree with. To vote for the Prime Minister they want. To vote for the best MP for their seat.

“I ask them to cast a positive vote.

“And there is no vote more positive than a vote for the Scottish Conservatives.”

Their manifesto is here:

Loading...

Taking too long?

↻ Reload document

| ↗ Open in new tab

There is also a UK Conservative Manifesto which you can read here:

Loading...

Taking too long?

Reload document

Open in new tab