

Hearts Unveil New Strips

Hearts have today unveiled their new home and away strips for season 2015/16. Hearts have worked with PUMA – one of the game's iconic world brands – to design and create a range of strips and training wear, unique to the Championship winners.

Hearts unique partnership with Save the Children sees the name of the charity on both home and away shirts which are now available to pre-order from the club.

A ladies version of both the home and away kit will also be on sale, along with new mini-kits for infants which will also include socks with shorts and shirt.

Hearts expect demand to be high for these new strips and have encouraged supporters to place their pre-orders now to avoid the disappointment of missing out on owning their own kit come July 7. Prices have been frozen at this season's level, starting from £45 for adults and £35 children.
