

Scottish Water turn the taps back on in Bruntsfield

Scottish Water have told us everything is now fixed at Bruntsfield:

Following disruption to water supplies in the Bruntsfield area, repairs have now been completed and the water main is re-charging.

Customers affected by disruption should be starting to see their normal water supply restored.

Scottish Water worked during the night to restore supplies following damage to a fire hydrant at Holy Corner yesterday evening. A backfeed was put in place to provide customers with an alternative supply, and a squad completed this repair overnight.

Unfortunately when the water main was then re-opened a valve broke earlier this morning, requiring a further repair. As a result some customers experienced further disruption, and bottled water was made available while repairs were completed.

We apologise for any inconvenience caused and are grateful to customers for their patience.
