

Missing South Queensferry man found safe and well

Police Scotland have confirmed that Scott MacKenzie, who was reported missing from the South Queensferry area on Sunday, June 20, has now been found safe and well.

Officers would like to thank those members of the public and media who participated in the search.