

North Face outlet store comes to Livingston

✖ Livingston Designer Outlet, Scotland's largest Outlet destination, has added The North Face to its existing retailer line up.

The North Face, the world's leading outdoor brand, will open the doors of its first outlet store in Scotland this morning at the outlet centre in West Lothian.

The new The North Face store will offer a wide range of products in a store over 120m², from Trail Running to Mountaineering and Hiking to Urban collections. Each season, new collections will feature innovative product technology that aim to protect and help push limits in the great outdoors. Experienced staff will be readily available to give expert advice on what is needed for exploration adventures.

Karen Stewart, Centre Manager at Livingston Designer Outlet, said: 'Securing The North Face's first outlet in Scotland is a fantastic for us and cements Livingston Designer Outlet's reputation as one of Scotland's finest retail destinations. We have a wide range of iconic fashion and high street brands and The North Face compliments them perfectly. We're very much looking forward to welcoming them.'
