

West End garage for sale

Demand for parking spaces in one of Scotland's financial hotspots is so great a company boss is selling his double garage for offers over £75,000.

The price – which would buy a three-bedroom house in many areas of the country – reflects daily parking charges in Edinburgh's West End approaching £30 a day.

Combined with the general lack of parking spaces and the city's notoriously "efficient" parking wardens, Ewan Foreman should have little difficulty finding a buyer.

Read more here