

Five things you need to know today!

Consultation on Health and Social Care Partnership

Tickets for Spectre

Raising funds for Calaid

Morning concerts at The Usher Hall

Doors Open Day

There is a consultation running till the end of October about the draft strategic plan for joining up health and social care with combined services from NHS Lothian and The City of Edinburgh Council.

The Joint Integrated Board want to ensure that everyone who needs their services can get help and assistance to live as independently as possible, but there is also a recognition that the current way of working cannot continue. There are financial constraints for both organisations and joining up the service is one way of achieving some of the savings.

Have your say if this is something that will affect you.

Here is the draft Strategic Plan
