

TERLive! Coverage of City of Edinburgh Council's Budget meeting

Today the council meet to discuss and set their budget for the coming financial year at the end of which there will be a council election.

This is an important budget, not simply because of political aspirations, but because it is being set in a time when resources are dwindling and the council has to be more inventive.

You can follow the live webcast on the council website by clicking here.