✘ Scottish National Jazz Orchestra: Dave Brubeck – Time Out. The familiar opening bars of Take Five were the soundtrack to sixties swing and mid-twentieth century cool. The tune made Dave Brubeck a household name, but also changed perceptions of jazz as a niche art form. Throughout his long and fulfilled career, Brubeck created stunning music of depth and breadth. He consolidated his initial success by continuing to explore unusual time signatures, but a gift for counterpoint and harmony also contributed to his widespread popularity. SNJO has specially commissioned respected composer Bill Dobbins (Professor of Jazz, Eastman School of Music, Rochester, NY), to arrange Brubeck's music and provide new ✘ ✘ insights into his most iconic compositions. The orchestra will be joined by Bill Dobbins at the piano and John Nugent on alto saxophone to interpret the complex and deeply spiritual work of a composer who remains loved and revered in equal measure. 7.30pm, Friday 29th April, The Queen's Hall, Clerk Street. Tickets £18-£22.50, SNJO Youth Card Holders £5, under 16s free; book online here or call the Box Office on 0131 668 2019. There will be a pre-show talk at 6.45pm – this is free to ticket holders.

Molotov Jukebox: 'an explosive London six-piece with a ✘ totally original, wonderfully colourful, Tropical-Gypsy-Dance sound and style'. Natalia Tena (of Harry Potter and Game of Thrones fame) fronts the band with her sultry lead vocals, her accordion backed up by gypsy violin, powerful Latin trumpet, and a pounding rhythm section. 7pm, Friday 29th April, Main Room, Electric Circus, Market Street. Tickets £12 + booking fee.

✘ 7th Avenue South: this impressive Dundee-based 5-piece fusion combo is put together by sax player Gordon McNeil to celebrate the legendary 70s Greenwich Village club 7th Avenue South created by Michael and Randy Brecker. The club hosted gigs by the Brecker Brothers, but also featured countless ✘ fast-rising jazz groups who went on to become top names recognised worldwide (Steps Ahead, Jaco Pastorius Word of Mouth Band, Bob Mintzer/Gil Evans coalition, Chick Corea's Three Quartets, etc).
