

First Minister on the first steps to independence after EU Referendum

The First Minister the Rt Hon Nicola Sturgeon appeared on the steps of Bute House just after 11.30 am this morning to explain the steps that Holyrood will now take to ensure Scotland's future.

Although she did not announce definite plans for a second independence referendum, she said it is very much on the table.

*First Minister @NicolaSturgeon to consult with experts...
pic.twitter.com/duv2K6664C*

– Edinburgh Reporter (@EdinReporter) June 25, 2016

A summit at Bute House is planned to get EU countries on side by @NicolaSturgeon pic.twitter.com/g0Gr1TzXnP

– Edinburgh Reporter (@EdinReporter) June 25, 2016

