

Our Pick of Edinburgh Festival Fringe 2016 – Hot Brown Honey

Hot Brown Honey packs a potent punch of Hip Hop politics, dance, poetry, comedy, circus, striptease and song. With their own brand of fierceness, these sexy, sassy, stylish six women boldly shatter preconceptions in an explosion of colour, culture and controversy.

Set in a dazzling beehive with lighting, music and costume to rival Beyonce at Madison Square Gardens, Hot Brown Honey goes above and beyond all expectations as it pushes boundaries and defies labels.

Equal parts theatrical spectacular to equal parts social activism – a stellar posse of phenomenal women smash stereotypes in a daring celebration of our similarities and differences.

Teaming up with the infamous Briefs Factory, these Honeys fly straight from Sydney Opera House in a bid to blow the roof off Assembly Roxy and leave Roxburgh Place smouldering.
