

Edinburgh Festival Fringe 2016 – [title of show]

Four chairs. Three weeks. Two bickering writers. One award-winning original musical.

Follow the challenges and triumphs of four nobodies in New York on their hilarious quest for Broadway, acceptance and a spot on Ellen DeGeneres' couch! An eccentric, witty and self-aware show (about the creation of a show) filled with diva riff offs, talking notepads and a jealous onstage pianist... what could possibly go wrong?

'[title of show]' is a musical about friendship, risks and the importance of learning to be true to both yourself and your dreams – however scary that may seem.

This show is perfect for both avid musical theatre lovers and sceptics alike; whilst the show clearly celebrates the musical form, with its catchy and contemporary score, it also lovingly pokes holes in the best and worst of Broadway through its witty book and lyrics. The hilarious pastiche and comment on wider popular culture (HBO, Aerosmith and Paris Hilton all get a shout out) will also ensure the show is loved by both young and old; as there are a few instances of expletive language, the show has a recommended suitability guidance of 14+.

Cobbles & Rhyme shall also be presenting a new, free, musical theatre-themed cabaret called [title of songs].

Enjoy a dazzling night of everyone's favourite musical theatre songs with twists, themes and special guests ensuring every show is unique. Come and experience a Night at the Movies, your go-to lovesick ballads or a carefully crafted set list of all the best guilty-pleasure jukebox anthems, performed by our exceptional selection of vocalists. Featuring music from ABBA to Andrew Lloyd-Webber, Sam Smith to Stephen Sondheim, this show is guaranteed to get the toes tapping.
